GET YOUR TICKETS BEFORE 4 O'CLOCK

"The Mascot," which was played so successfully to a crowded house last Thursday, will be repeated at the Opera House tonight. The general opinion of all who saw last Thursday's production is that it was a brilliant success. In fact everybody is most enthusiastic in their praise. Tonight's performance will be even a little better, if possible, than Thursday's, as now the ice is broken. All concerned in "The Mascot" know what the public thinks, and are not a bit afraid to trust themselves to the public again.

There is every indication of another crowded house tonight as nearly every good seat is now taken, there being but a very few good ones left.

In respect to this management wishes it clearly understood that no tickets for tonight's performance will be held after 4 o'clock this afternoon. Several people engaged some of the best seats in the house for Thursday's performance and held them until the last moment, finally not calling for them at all.

The management wishing to be fair to all has therefore made this ruling. "No tickets held after 4 p. m."

JUDGE PERRY ENDORSED.

EDITOR STAR:—In regard to the remarks in your issue of the 23rd inst re Judge Perry for Mayor of Honolulu, I heartily concur with the views expressed therein, that is, "that it would be impossible to get a more competent man for the position." He would certainly make an ideal candidate.

THE MORAL AWAKENING

(New Bedford Republican Standard).

A plain spoken and possibly irascible correspondent of the Hartford Courant allows that "among the exhibits of rot that is foisted upon us by eminent teachers and writers of the day, the rottenest is the chortle about the 'great moral awakening of the people.' It must be confessed that a good many persons who are by no means lacking in reverence and respect for morality are desperately inclined to think The Courant's correspondent is more than half right. While an unconquerable optimism regarding the march of right ideas to triumphant practical and universal acceptance may keep some of us from falling into the bog of despondency, we are yet suspicious of a moral awakening whose coming and continuance need so many barriers. This is not the first time in the history of the human race that noise has masqueraded as character—but if we have come to a place where noise is character, there certainly is one new thing under the sun.

In most religious circles, in this country, at least, it is now agreed that vehement and violent emotional chatter is not the proof of a well-constructed spirituality. True religion is not usually considered to be dependent on the excitement of the old-fashioned "revival." Deep and genuine piety is not a matter of clattering advertisement. Indeed, it is inclined to be rather quiet as well as reluctant to hold itself up to public view, but contents itself with works meet for repentance and leaves glorification of its moral awakening for others, while it is not much troubled if there is no glorification. Least of all, does it manifest its saintliness by dwelling vehemently on the sins of its neighbors. Forced to consider them, it does so with sorrow and restricts its activities to an endeavor to lead the erring in all kindness into a better way, with no supercilious sanctimoniousness of its own part. Something like this, we believe, is a fair representation of what the best religious teachers of this time look upon as the true moral awakening.

This other moral awakening, about which we are hearing so much, has its moments—too frequent—of sounding brass and tinkling cymbal. It is like the earthquake and the fire which passed over the mountain where a badly scared prophet had taken refuge, except that it leaves scant opportunity for the still, small voice. Mr. Whitling, who writes to the Hartford newspaper, calls it a rotten-chortle, a combination of words picturesque and conveying an emphatic thought. We never should have thought of that, because the noise of denunciation which is one of the chief elements of this "awakening" worries us with a fear that possibly the people who most need to wake up haven't awakened, and that those who have waked up haven't waked the right way. Seriously, a good deal of it looks more like a wave of excitement rather than the manifestation of a genuine purpose to do justly and walk humbly in the way of righteousness. There is too much noise.

After all, the real thing in moral awakening is not a show. The kingdom of God does not come with brass bands, and parks of artillery firing salutes, and flags run up to the top of the staff, and sky rockets set off when the sun goes down. Some men help it along more than others, but the most that any one man can possibly do, no matter how conspicuous he may be, is infinitesimal compared with the combined influence of hundreds of humble workers, each one of whom contributes his little share and retires from the task unnoticed. And in the summing up what counts is not the fever of passionate speech—and emphatically not the fever of passionate denunciation—but the characters of individual men, as exhibited in what they actually do themselves, not in what they say other men should do. Are men's own consciences awakened? Do they comprehend and discharge their own responsibilities? Are kindness, honor, conscientiousness in public and private duty the rule of life? If so, then there is opportunity to boast of a moral awakening; but the more this is so, the less the inclination to boast will be.

SEATS PROMPTLY CALLED FOR

If the Marama happens to get into port, or is signalled after the business houses close on Monday, holders of tickets and those who have not bought tickets and who want to hear Kubelik, the greatest living violinist, have only to telephone Manager Peters of the Messenger Service and he will supply information as to the time the concert will take place. It was thought such an arrangement could be made with the telephone company for answering the question, but the management of that institution felt that it would be in the nature of advertising which is against the rules of the company. For that reason Peter was called upon to take the place of "Central." The seats set apart for persons, and which Manager Adams requested should be called for at noon today, have been transferred, to an appreciable extent, from the drawer of the Wall, Nichols Co., to the pockets of the purchasers. The number remaining uncalled for is small and Mr. Wall gives it as his opinion that the house will be entirely sold out when the vessel is reported.

CIVILIZATION.

A commotion was caused in the Boulevard Haussmann the other day when one of the best known women in Paris got out of an elegant motor car leading by a silver chain a tiny poodle dressed in the height of fashion. The dog was wearing a pigskin collar adorned with gold coins and a little fur coat with a side pocket, from which peeped a small lace handkerchief, while its little feet were protected from the damp by indiarubber shoes. In the poodle's ears were two pairs of diamond earrings, one pair in each ear, the ears being pierced at the base and at the tip. The feelings of this darling pet were dogmatically repressed. He appeared absolutely indifferent to the excited glances bestowed upon him, and his mistress.—Boston Herald.

CONTRACT TO SUPPLY MILK.

SANTA ROSA, April 24.—Sonoma county will furnish the officers and men of the Atlantic battleship fleet milk and cream, as well as eggs, while they are in San Francisco bay. The Valley Ford creamery has secured the contract to furnish the army department for use of the fleet 40,000 cases of condensed cream and milk, a total of 960,000 cans. The contract was secured in open competition with other manufacturers in this state and in the east.

VALLEJO, April 24.—At the St. Johns quicksilver mine, located not far from Vallejo, a rich vein of cinabar has been struck at the 500 foot level. Superintendent Alfred Tregidgo states that there is $500,000 worth of ore in sight, with every indication that the vein is lasting.

Additional machinery will be installed at once and the force of workmen will be increased from 25 men to 50. This will soon make the mine one of the best paying and most productive in the world.

SUSPECTED WORK OF THE GRAFTERS

Attempt to Assassinate Former Supervisor Gallagher at Oakland.

HIS RESIDENCE DYNAMITED.
Eight Occupants of The Dwelling
Marvelously Escape
Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23.—The house of James L. Gallagher in Oakland was dynamited last night so effectively that the occupants, including Gallagher, narrowly missed death.

The identity of the dynamiters is unknown—as yet. Who are they? Who hired them and why?

Irresistibly these questions suggest another: Who would be benefited most by the death of Gallagher?

Irresistibly speculation, seeking the answer to these questions, turns first to the vital and prominent fact that Gallagher is the chief witness for the prosecution in the cases of Ruef and the "higher ups" of San Francisco graft. Beyond that there seems to be no need to go.

OAKLAND, April 22.—A dynamite bomb completely wrecked the residence of W. H. H. Schneek, brother in law of James L. Gallagher, at 1370 Nineteenth avenue, this evening, while the former president of the San Francisco board of supervisors and his wife were dressing for the evening in a room just above and to the south of the vestibule where the explosion took place. The Gallagher's had been living there several months.

The force of the explosion tore away the whole front of the frame house, rent the sides, split completely in twain the dining table around which Schneek and the members of his family were gathered, hurled a pillar from the porch on the side of the house a distance of 150 feet, and shivered every window in the residence of G. M. McDonald, which adjoined the scene of the disaster on the south, also badly damaging Thomas M. Gardner's home to the north. By a strange freak of fate, not a person in the Schneek house was injured, although Miss Georgia Schneek and Lieutenant Guy Brown of Company A, Fifth regiment, national guard, were standing next to the wall in the dining room, only about 10 feet from the spot where the dynamite was placed.

STATEMENT BY HENRY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The Call prints the following statement from Francis J. Heney, leading counsel for the prosecution of the grafters: "It is an obvious fact and I have no hesitation in declaring that this was not the work of any crank or anarchist, but a deliberate attempt to assassinate Gallagher instigated by persons who can be injured by his testimony in the graft cases. The fiendish recklessness with which the lives of innocent and disinterested persons were endangered stamps the attempted assassination as one of the most atrocious crimes ever committed in California. The law does not furnish any adequate punishment for its perpetrators or its instigators. Hanging would be too good for all of them."

"I have long been expecting this to happen and at the very moment it did happen I was telling William O. Inglis, a representative of Harper's Weekly, in my office, that the crimes now being committed by the graft defendants to prevent justice from being effectively enforced through the courts are of far greater and more lasting injury to the community than all the municipal graft crimes committed under the Schnitz administration by Schnitz, Ruef, the hoodling supervisors and the corporation bribers combined."

"Mr. Inglis asked me what I meant by that statement and I replied that I meant the organized effort to bribe and kidnap witnesses, suborn perjury and bribe jurors and that I was confident that the organized grafters would go still further and assassinate witnesses or others to accomplish their purposes and defeat justice."

"If any one wants confirmation of my statement it is only necessary to stand on the sidewalk in front of the criminal courts building any morning for half an hour before court opens, now that the Ruef and Ford cases are on trial, and look over the motley crowd of tunderloft ruffians, thugs and plug uglies who report there regularly to Tom Gibson and Luther Brown of the United States detective force."

FAIRWEATHER ALIMONY.

There was an interesting little fight in Judge De Bolt's court this morning over a motion brought by Dr. Fairweather, asking that the alimony of $50 per month which he had been ordered to pay his wife be reduced. E. C. Peters represented the wife and after the testimony had all been presented took occasion to review it and scored the dentist severely for spending money in hiring hacks, buggies and automobiles and in paying up old debts while he allowed his wife to go without the money which she had been awarded by the Court.

The dentist showed that his board cost him only $31 per month and that his office expenses were about $98 per month, while he received a total income of less than $150, out of which he was supposed to pay his wife $50. When the appellant had completed his testimony Peters moved to dismiss and after argument the motion was granted by Judge De Bolt.

PE-RU-NA PROMPTLY RELIEVES

A Case of Dreadful Suffering Which Had Continued For Months.

An Account of a Remarkable Recovery Given By Mr. Alfred Wood, Teacher of a Private School at Launceston, Tasmania.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED WOOD.

Mr. Alfred Wood, who has a private school at 22 Frederick street, Launceston, Tasmania (Australia), has been a teacher for 37 years under the Educational Department of Tasmania. He writes, concerning his wife's case, as follows:

"My wife was suffering for months from gastro-enteritis, and was given up by her medical attendant. By good fortune I was induced to try Peruna in her case, and I can truthfully state that from the first dose her dreadful suffering ceased; and after taking five bottles she is permanently cured."

HOW does Peruna make such extraordinary cures as above recited? By simply arousing the forces of Nature to throw off the diseased action. Peruna contains no magic and does not operate in any mysterious way, but it does help Nature to combat disease, and thus many times comes to the rescue of the patient in some important crisis.

There is always a time in the course of any disease when a little help goes a great way. Just as the scales are beginning to descend, when one ounce more would determine the fate of the patient, a little lift will turn the scales in favor of the patient.

Peruna is a handy medicine to have in the household. It helps many diseases by imparting a natural vigor to the whole system.

As a tonic or cathartic remedy, its reputation is well established all over the world. The following wholesale druggists will supply the retail trade: BENSON SMITH & CO, Honolulu Hawaii.

As a remedy for stomach and bowel disease, the fame of Peruna is undoubtedly destined to become greater than that of any other medicine in the world. A great many cases like that above referred to have found Peruna of untold value when no other help seemed of any avail.

Pe-ru-na For Indigestion. Mr. Donald Robb, Jr., 18 Wrights Ave., Halifax, Nova Scotia, member Independent Order of Foresters, writes: "While on a visit to Boston, I must have eaten something that did not agree with my stomach, as a terrible case of indigestion followed. Peruna was recommended to me and after using three bottles I was entirely cured. I therefore recommend Peruna to any one suffering with stomach trouble." Mr. Chas. Brown, Rogersville, Tenn., writes: "A friend advised me to take Peruna for indigestion and it cured me in a short time."
